〈Background〉

In Kenya, there are cases where graduates of some of the top universities are unable to obtain the necessary ICT-related jobs, and as a result, are left with no choice but to work in primary industries such as agriculture. This situation is partly resulting from the fact that students do not have the opportunity to acquire practical ICT skills at university, which are required for employment.

〈Goal〉

- Investigate the demand for Sun* Inc.'s unique ICT education curriculum and ecosystem at local universities with Computer Science departments.
- Based on the progresses of the study, consider offering a trial curriculum to students with needs to test the speed of their learning.

Future Vision

Assuming one cycle to be one year, the project is expected to be fully implemented as a new in-house business from 2023.
